POLICE CAPTAINS ACCUSED.

Chicago Commission Says They Accepted Money to Permit Gambling. CHICAGO, August 9.-The city civil CHICAGO, August 9.—The city civil service commission has recommended to Mayor Thompson the suspension of six police captains pending the filing of charges that they permitted gambling machines to be operated, according to an announcement made by Percy B. Coffin, president of the commission. Two captains have received $600 to $750 a week each to permit gambling slot machines to run in their districts, according to Coffin. The commission's plan to make the recommendation to the mayor came after investigators for the Citizens' Association of Chicago testified under oath before the commission that they had visited saloons, poolrooms and cigar stores and had found the gambling machines being operated openly.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS HONOR MEMORY OF RILEY

RESOLUTION MENTIONS GIFT OF PROPERTY TO THE CITY.

BUILDING PLANS DISCUSSED

Members of the city board of school nisioners unanimously adopted a res olution of tribute to the memory of James Whitcomb Riley at a meeting last night. It mentions the generosity of the poet and his gift of property to the city, which made possible the erection of the new public library at Meridian and Pratt

Text of the Resolution.

The resolution was drawn up and pre sented to the board by a committee composed of William M. Taylor and Mrs. Julia B. Tutewiler. The text follows:

"With profound sorrow and deep regret we record the death of James Whitcomb Riley, Indiana's most respected and beloved poet. His character and habits were the simplest of human beings. Kiley was a poet of, for and by the common people—a writer for the masses. He not only wrote about them, but for them and to them and no American poet probably has come so near the hearts of the people nor has been so cherished by the children. "His generosity made the erection of the new central library a possibility; his generous gift to his home city, which he worshipped so greatly, gave the first impulse to the erection of this beautiful new home for books. The board of city school commissioners herewith express deepest sented to the board by a committee comnome for books. The board of city school commissioners herewith express deepest sympathy at the demise of James Whitcomb Riley: a thankful citizenship that loved him in life will mourn him in death and will always endeavor to uphold his memory to high and noble aims and deeds.

"Therefore he it Resolved. That these deeds.

"Therefore be it Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes and a copy of same be forwarded to relatives of the deceased." At Manual and Technical.

The board discussed many proposed im provements that are planned for various school buildings in the city, particularly those at Manual Training high school and the new Technical high school. Architects, who have submitted plans for the new Technical buildings, conferred with the commissioners. The board expressed a desire that a dining room be established large enough to accommodate 500 pupils

A resolution was adopted providing for the establishment of a heating plant at School No. 9, Vermont and Fulton streets. Work will begin immediately in taking out the old furnaces.

The board decided to buy three lots across from Manual Training high school in South Meridian street to bused for school purposes. Two will be bought from the city and the other will be obtained through condemnation proceedings. A new building for the school will be erected on the property.

Dr. Herman G. Morgan, city sanitarian, will be asked to address the board on the hygienic problems in the city schools at the next meeting.

SWEET SENDS LONG MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, August 9.-Statements made by Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, in speeches at Detroit, were characterized as "false as to facts and of misleading substance" in telegrams sent by administration officials last night after a long discussion of the subject by President Wilson and his cabinet at yesterday's meeting. The charges related to changes in the coast and geodetic survey and the census bureau.

Secretary Redfield, in Binghamton, N. Y., telegraphed to Secretary Tumulty denying the charges made by Mr. Hughes and later sent a similar telegram to Mr. Hughes. Edwin F. Sweet, acting secretary of commerce in Mr. Redfield's absence, also telegraphed Mr. Hughes giving a detailed refutation of the charges.

Mr. Hughes cited the retirement of E. Dana Durand as director of the census and the appointment of William J. Harris in his place and the replacement of O. H. Tittman as head of the coast and geodetic survey by Dr. E. Lester Jones. net at yesterday's meeting. The charges

Mr. Sweet's telegram to Mr. Hughes follows: "In a speech at Detroit yesterday you are quoted as saying: 'We had in the coast and geodetic survey an eminent scientist, a man who had won dis-tinction in connection with his scientific work, a man of very eminent rank. "In the coast and geodetic survey we have had a very extraordinary condition with regard to expert piaces. I mean places that were taken out of the civil service laws. I shall not go into the exact figures. In the year ending about April, 1916, there were taken out 104—that is, appointments by executive action, removed from the operation of the civil service laws, to the number, I believe, of about 104. 104.

CHICAGO, August 9.-Charles Evans Hughes, Republican nominee for President of the United States, had just got through the crowd at the union station last night, and was safely aboard the train for St Paul, when there was a commotion "It's Hughes, it's Hughes," some one shouted, and in a moment a crowd had surrounded a dignified. gray whiskered man, who, with much difficulty, explained that he was Dr. W. H. Buehler, a local physician. Later Dr. Buehler posed for photographs on the rear platform of the Hughes train. Mr. Hughes was a witness of the incident. He had met his "double" earlier in the ment. Dr. Tittman, superintendent of the coast and geodetic survey, the scientist to whom you refer, was not displaced. In February or March, 1915, he came to my office and told me that he had determined to resign on account of ill health. He said that he had reached the conclusion many months before and had already purchased a place in Leesburg, Va., which he expected to make his home. I communicated this information to Secretary Redfield, who expressed surprise and regret. Dr. Tittman's action was entirely voluntary and was not the result of any request or suggestion of the department, direct or indirect.

bureau of this appartment and displayed administrative tarent or, such high order that he was deemed by both the secretary and myself worthy of recommendation for appointment to fill the vacancy in the coast and geodetic survey. In our judgment this bureau was well equipped from the scientific standpoint, but stood in great need of a man of executive ability to direct and organize its work.

"About two months elapsed between the resignation of Dr. Tittman and the appointment of Mr. Jones. During that interval and before the recommendation was made suggestions and advice were was made suggestions and advice were freely sought from parties who knew the qualifications of Mr. Jones and also from parties who knew the needs of the bureau, some of them of the highest standing in the scientific world.

The remaining twelve were for temporary positions, chiefly of laborers, at salaries of less than $3 a day. None of them are under the civil service law as it stands now and as it stood for years.

Lack of water was one of the principal causes of suffering among the Turkish troops. In some cases they suffered so frightfully from thirst that they killed their camels and drank the blood.

The prisoners say the Turkish losses were exceedingly heavy, as they attacked in mass formation in ignorance of the strong defenses of the British. The devastating machine gun fite with which the assault was met was the first indication the privates had of the task that confronted them. According to one of the troopers, a Turkish detachment which surrendered first killed the German officers.
